1. Turn on the main power switch (pic.1, p.1).
2. Open the door, load the things, then close the door.
3. Select a program using the program selector (pic.1, p.2), watching the display screen (pic.1, p.3):
  - Extra drying. This program is designed for things that are difficult to dry, for example, jeans with very thick seams.
  - Normal drying and Delicate drying. In these programs the heating is turned off immediately after drying the loaded items. In the Normal Drying program the heating is turned off slightly later than in the Delicate Drying program. These programs should be used if you want things to be completely dry.
  - Drying “under the iron”. This program provides turning off the heating as soon as the loaded items reach a degree of humidity sufficient for ironing with an iron.
4. Press the "START" button (pic.1, p. 4).
5. The dryer can be stopped after starting the program by opening the door. Add the laundry or remove the required items, close the door and press the "START" button (pic.1, p.4).
6. After drying is finished, turn off the main power switch (pic.1, p.1).
7. When the drying program is completed, the display shows "completed".

Cleaning the lint filter.

If the display (pic.2, p.3) shows the inscription: "Clear the filter", the machine cannot be started.

1. Grasp the lower part of the filter handle and pull it towards you (pic. 2, p.5).
2. Clean the filter and manually remove the lint from all sides.

Condensate drain.

The condensate drain container is located in the upper-left corner of the machine (pic. 2, p. 2). The condensate must be drained after each loading.

1. Remove the container, pour out the water and put the container back in place.
2. If the container is excessively filled with condensate, the program is interrupted and the display shows the inscription: "OVERFLOW".
3. To restart the program, clear the container and press the "START" button (pic1, p 4).

Instructions for using the iron

1. Check if you can iron your clothes. Look at the label, as there are most often instructions for the care of clothing. If you didn't find this information there, look at what the thing is made of.
2. Prepare for ironing. Use an ironing board.
3. Pour water into the iron tank. Use filtered water to avoid clogging the steam holes of the iron.
4. Set the appropriate temperature of the iron and let it warm up.
5. Place the item on the ironing board. Start ironing.
6. Attention: do not leave the iron in one place to avoid the product sticking to the sole of the iron.
7. Keep the iron in an upright position to avoid fires.
8. Make sure that the cord is positioned freely.
9. Unplug the iron from the outlet after the ironing process is complete to avoid a fire.
10. To remove burn marks from the sole of the iron, use a special pencil. To do this, turn on the iron and set the average heating power. By drawing a pencil on the iron's smooth surface, clean it from dirt. Remove any pencil residue with a clean linen or cotton cloth.
